Ridley Hall Farm New Farmhouse & Dairy Shed

Client : M. Theobald
Value: £220,000 (farmhouse)
On site: October 2007
Programme: 36 weeks
Contractor: Jimsul Construction Ltd

Project Profile

Ridley Hall Farm is a new farmhouse and dairy shed located in the heart of rural South West Cheshire belonging to Cheshire County Council.

The farm replaces an existing farm which had inadequate building facilities. It is the first new farmhouse in Cheshire for 100 years and is now known as 'Century House'.

The new farmhouse as constructed has been designed sympathetic to the surrounding developments using appropriate materials.

The scale of the development is appropriate for the accommodation of the farm manager and his family and the management of the farm and good animal welfare.
